

Democracy Dialogues

Filmmaker Walter Miale presents a live program, DEMOCRACY DIALOGUES, which features a series of short videos from his forthcoming DVD, DEADLY MISTAKES?.

DEMOCRACY DIALOGUES provides historical context necessary for understanding today's international crises. This context is lacking both in public discussion and in the American history curriculum.

DEMOCRACY DIALOGUES looks at episodes from:

- the past: the Cuban missile crisis, the Vietnam War, and U.S. interventions in the Third World; and
- the 21st Century: nuclear weapons on a hair trigger, the invasion of Iraq, and the war in Colombia.

Are any or all of these events and policies mistakes, or are they justifiable? Or are they crimes? What should we learn from the mistakes of the past, and how can we apply these lessons to help shape America's future? What can WE do to prevent future "deadly mistakes."

The audience is invited to join the distinguished cast in considering these questions, and to discuss them on camera. Between the videos, Walter films a discussion, highlights of which will be incorporated in future programs.
